Healthcare Crown Academy: draft legal and system review

Prepared: 27 October 2026. Status: working draft for a UK consumer and data-protection solicitor, not a solicitor's opinion or permission to start taking payments.

Scope and evidence

I read both supplied PDFs, including all eight parts of LEGAL-REVIEW-PACK33.pdf. I compared the pack with the public terms, refunds, privacy and plans pages; the public Lean Six Sigma legal page; Evinca's public terms; and the Academy site's published front-end code at `e910dec` on `claude/loving-ptolemy-srrq02`. I did not make a purchase, inspect Stripe or Supabase settings, access private databases or edge-function source, or inspect the separate Lean Six Sigma and Evinca repositories. Statements in Parts 2–6 and 8 about those systems are owner assertions, not verified facts. The PDFs' instructions to a solicitor are treated as the requested review format; I cannot provide a solicitor's conflict check, fee quote or legal sign-off.

For each table, Must fix means resolve before taking money for that product; Should fix means significant clarity or compliance work; Nice to have is lower priority. Proposed wording must be reconciled with the actual code and settled business policy before publication. A missing quote is shown as omission.

Priority decisions

1. Do not switch on Crown Pass billing yet. The published refunds page promises that founding members keep £29.99 indefinitely; the plan page says £29.99 for the first year and then £39.99. Preserve the price customers were promised if any live contract was made, or correct the refund promise before taking money. The £39.99 struck-through comparison needs evidence or a different presentation.
2. Treat the service/digital-content classification as unsettled. Lesson decks, question banks and downloadable/offline material may be digital content even if hosted access and support are services. A blanket services-only statement is too confident. The current early-access checkbox describes a proportionate service refund but does not obtain the separate acknowledgement needed if a digital-content cancellation right is to be lost. A solicitor should classify each supply and design a fair mixed-supply rule. Do not use that classification to cut existing customer refunds.
3. Check the whole distance-sale flow. A Stripe payment receipt alone has not been shown to contain the required contract confirmation, cancellation information and form on a durable medium. Check the final Stripe button, price/renewal information directly before order, consent evidence, and trial conversion in test mode.
4. Resolve data issues before promoting Academy AI. The privacy page says Google is an active fallback; the pack says Gemini is off. The draft DPIA is unsigned and its special-category consent theory relies on merely sending health data. The cache isolation, retention jobs, transfer agreements and deletion procedure need evidence.
5. Fix the Daily Crown cookie basis. The published JavaScript writes `hca-daily` automatically when an activity is done unless the user has switched it off. A helpful streak is unlikely to be strictly necessary for the learning service. Provide an affirmative choice before writing it, or have counsel document a defensible exemption.
6. Do not treat the Lean Six Sigma or Evinca texts in the pack as a final copy of what customers see. The live Lean Six Sigma page says the US$99 price is "including any tax that applies"; the pack instead says no tax is added. Evinca's paid checkout and 18+ checks are described as unfinished.

1. Main terms of use

Issue	Exact quote from current text	Why it matters	Severity	Suggested replacement wording
Paid services can be changed for broad reasons	“unless we must for a legal, security or supplier reason outside our control”	The supplier ground is broad. CRA 2015 Part 2 asks whether a change power is fair and clear.	Should fix	“We may make a material change during your paid period only when a change in law, a security risk or the loss of a service we cannot reasonably replace makes it necessary. We will explain the change. If it makes your plan materially worse, you may end it and receive a refund for the unused period. Your legal rights remain.”
Suspension review promise may be impossible for a one-person company	“a person who was not involved in the decision will look at it”	Part 2 says there is one director and no employees. An independent reviewer is not evidenced.	Must fix	“You may ask for a review of the suspension by emailing us. We will reconsider the evidence fairly and tell you our decision. If we arrange an independent reviewer, we will tell you who they are.” Add an actual external reviewer before promising independence.
Automatic payment pause is unproved	“While an account is suspended pending review, we pause renewals.”	The front-end repository does not prove Stripe pauses renewal. A charge contrary to this promise would breach the contract.	Must fix	Keep this sentence only after testing a Stripe suspension. Until then: “If we suspend paid access while we review a concern, we will not charge you for access you cannot use. If a renewal is taken in error, we will refund it.”
Cross-border mandatory rights need a clear saving	“These terms are governed by the law of England and Wales.”	Consumers in the EU and Gulf may retain mandatory local rights despite this choice. Evinca says so; the Academy terms do not.	Should fix	“English law applies to these terms. If you live outside England and Wales, this does not take away consumer rights or court options that the law where you live says you must keep.”

Issue	Exact quote from current text	Why it matters	Severity	Suggested replacement wording
Account closure depends on data procedure that may lose financial records	"You can close your account at any time by emailing us."	Part 8's deletion script warns that cascading foreign keys may erase payment rows. The closure promise is fine, but the procedure needs repair before use.	Must fix operationally	Keep the customer sentence. Before processing requests, build a documented deletion and retention process that preserves required accounting records and deletes or unlinks other records safely.

Provisional verdict: No for paid launch until the suspension, billing and data-retention promises are tested. After the must-fix items are resolved, the terms are a usable draft for solicitor approval.

2. Subscriptions, cancelling and refunds

Issue	Exact quote	Why it matters	Severity	Suggested replacement wording
Founding-price contradiction	"Founding members keep their founding price for as long as they stay subscribed."	The plans page says £29.99 for the first year, then £39.99. This is a material price term and could bind the company.	Must fix	If the intended offer is first-year only: "If you join the yearly Crown Pass by 31 January 2027, your first year costs £29.99. It then renews at £39.99 a year unless you cancel. We will show the next price before you agree and remind you before renewal." Use only if no existing contract promised lifetime pricing; honour or resolve any such contracts separately.
Blanket service classification	"Each paid plan is an ongoing online service… That is why the cancellation and refund rules below follow the rules for services."	The products include digital lessons, questions and software. CCR 2013 regulations 36–37 and CRA 2015 treat services and digital content differently. The company cannot settle classification by declaration.	Must fix	"Our plans give continuing access to online learning tools and digital materials. The cancellation rules that apply depend on what we supply. The refund rights below are the minimum we offer you; they do not remove any wider right you have by law." Have counsel settle the precise mixed-product position.

Model form and terms may not reach customer durably	“After you pay, Stripe (our payment provider) emails you a receipt, and these terms are always available on this page.”	CCR regulation 16 requires contract confirmation on a durable medium; a web page may change, and a payment-only receipt may omit the terms and cancellation information.	Must fix	“After you order, we email you a confirmation showing your plan, price, renewal terms, cancellation information and a copy of the terms and model cancellation form. You can also find the current terms on this site.” Implement and verify the email before using this text.
Instant-refund limit may impede a statutory cancellation	“The instant ‘Cancel and get a refund’ button covers one refund per person for each product.”	An email route preserves rights, but a hidden or slow manual route could still mislead or burden a consumer. The company must show the email route as prominently as the limit.	Should fix	“If you have used the instant button before, email us to cancel. We will apply the same legal cancellation rules and refund deadline. The button limit does not limit your legal rights.” Test repeat purchases and mistaken charges.
Trial and renewal words need a future-law plan	“Renewals are not covered by the 14-day right today.”	This may change under the prospective DMCCA subscription regime. The draft 2026 regulations specify 1 January 2027, subject to approval.	Should fix before commencement	“The cancellation rights that apply to renewals may change when the new UK subscription rules start. We will update this page before then.” On commencement, replace with the actual right, reminder and refund rules.
Time-based deduction needs transparent calculation	“price minus a proportionate amount for the access you have already had, in proportion to the time since you paid”	CCR regulation 36 uses the contract price and proportion of service supplied, subject to excessive-price safeguards. Calendar time can be a fair proxy for continuous access, but the bundled/front-loaded content warrants legal review.	Should fix	“For continuing access, we normally calculate the amount for the paid days you had access: the price paid × paid days used ÷ days in the paid period. We will show the amount before you confirm. If the law gives you more, we will pay the higher refund.” Confirm partial-day rounding and bundle allocation.
Existing-holder sentence is unsupported	“Anyone who already has a single-app plan keeps it on the same terms.”	Part 3 says there were no real buyers. The sentence suggests a live legacy product and may confuse new buyers.	Nice to have	Delete if there are no real holders. If a test account is not a contract, it needs no public promise.

Provisional verdict: No, because the founding-price contradiction and contract-confirmation gap are material. With those fixed, service/digital-content classification settled, and refund behaviour tested, this can be approved.

3. Main privacy notice

Issue	Exact quote	Why it matters	Severity	Suggested replacement wording
Gemini described as active, pack says off	"OpenAI first, and if OpenAI is unavailable, Groq and then Google (Gemini)."	Part 4 says Gemini is enabled only after a paid Google project is confirmed and is currently off. Transparency must describe the actual route.	Must fix	"We send your request to OpenAI. If that service is unavailable, we may use Groq. We do not currently send these requests to Google Gemini. If we add another provider, we will update this notice before using it."
Health-data consent is inferred from sending	"we rely on your explicit consent, given when you choose to send it"	UK GDPR Article 9 explicit consent requires a clear express statement; choosing to send health information is not by itself that statement. The risk is acute for AI text and 16–17-year-olds.	Must fix	"Please do not include health information about yourself or anyone else in Academy AI. If you send us health information in an enquiry, we will use only what is needed to answer you and will tell you the legal basis and special-category condition that applies. We may ask for an express statement of consent where that is the right condition." Agree the exact basis with counsel.
Streak cookie is written without opt-in	"You can switch the streak off at any time"	The site code writes `hca-daily` after activity by default. ICO PECR guidance says useful or convenient cookies are not automatically strictly necessary.	Must fix	"Daily Crown is optional. We use its cookie only if you switch it on. It stores your activity date, apps used and streak count for up to a year. You can switch it off and delete the cookie in your account settings." Implement opt-in before publishing that wording.

Transfer route described as completed without evidence	"we use a transfer route recognised by UK law"	Part 8 lists supplier DPAs and transfer assessments still to collect. A statement of completed safeguards is not yet evidenced.	Must fix	Keep only after filing the agreements, certification checks and transfer risk assessments. Until then, do not send personal data to a provider whose lawful transfer route is unresolved.
Privacy table omits some actors/categories	"OpenAI, Groq, Google" and "Technical logs kept by our hosting and database providers"	Google is inactive; email provider is not named; recipients and international transfer detail need to match real data flows. The package does not establish all processors or log retention.	Should fix	Name only actual providers; add email delivery, customer-support and analytics suppliers if used, with their role, location and retention. Include the actual AI fallback and provider retention based on contracts.
Automated refund review needs an actual human route	"you can always ask a person to look again"	One-person organisation can do this, but the procedure and availability must be evidenced.	Should fix	"If the automatic refund result looks wrong, email us. The director will review it and tell you the outcome."

Provisional verdict: No for wider AI promotion or paid launch until the active data flows, PECR choice and transfer claims are corrected and evidenced.

4. Lean Six Sigma terms

Issue	Exact quote	Why it matters	Severity	Suggested replacement wording
Pack and live tax copy conflict	Pack: "We are not registered for VAT or sales tax, so nothing is added: the price shown is the total you pay." Live page: "including any tax that applies"	These statements differ materially. UK VAT status does not by itself decide overseas VAT/GST obligations. A customer must see the real all-in price.	Must fix	"The total price you will pay is shown before you place your order. We do not add UK VAT while we are not UK VAT-registered. Any tax we must collect for your location will be included in the total shown at checkout." Confirm overseas treatment with an accountant and match checkout.

Certificate withdrawal after refund may overreach	Refund policy: “any certificate issued under that purchase is withdrawn.”	The certificate records an exam pass that happened. Automatically changing that historical fact, especially for a faulty-service refund, can be unfair or misleading.	Should fix	“If you cancel your purchase within the change-of-mind period, paid access ends. We may mark a certificate from that purchase as cancelled, but we will not misstate the exam result. A refund for faulty service does not by itself erase a result.” Define verification-status behaviour first.
Team terms mixed into consumer page	“Team and hospital licences give each named person their own account.”	Employer invoicing needs separate seats, administration, liability, data roles and refund rules. Consumer rights cannot be waived for an individual buyer.	Should fix	“Organisations buying seats by invoice receive separate written team terms. Each learner gets a personal account.”

Provisional verdict: No until tax and certificate treatment are settled and the live LSS site is rechecked.

5. Lean Six Sigma privacy policy

Issue	Exact quote	Why it matters	Severity	Suggested replacement wording
Privacy rights incomplete	“You can ask to access, correct, export or delete your data, or object to how we use it”	UK GDPR rights also include restriction and withdrawal of consent where consent is relied on. The controller must explain complaint route and retention accurately.	Should fix	“You can ask us to access, correct, delete or restrict use of your data, object to some uses, and receive a portable copy where the law applies. If we rely on your consent, you may withdraw it. Email us; we normally reply within one month.”

Certificate retention conflicts with verification promise	"Account and certificate: while your account is open; deleted within 30 days after you ask us to close it."	Public certificate verification may persist after account closure, but the text promises deletion. The data map does not establish the true behaviour.	Must fix if verification remains	"When you close your account, we delete your profile within 30 days. We keep only the certificate details needed to verify a certificate you have chosen to keep public, for [actual period], unless you ask us to withdraw it or law requires otherwise." Use only after defining actual retention.
Third-party browser calls need a verified inventory	"Google Fonts, cdnjs and jsDelivr: fonts and code libraries. Your browser contacts them when the page loads"	The actual live page and policies must match the current network requests. These services may set or access storage and transfer IP data abroad.	Should fix	Keep the supplier list only after a browser network audit; explain each supplier's purpose and transfer route. Self-host static dependencies where practical.

Provisional verdict: No until retention and recipient claims match the running toolkit.

6. Lean Six Sigma refund policy

Issue	Exact quote	Why it matters	Severity	Suggested replacement wording
Service-only basis is unconfirmed	Terms: "Full access is an ongoing online service for 12 months, so the cancellation rules for services apply"	The toolkit includes digital materials and software; counsel must assess mixed supply under CCR regulations 36–37.	Must fix	"You may cancel as set out below. These rights are in addition to any right the law gives you for digital content or services." Preserve the stated generous refund promise during classification review.
Automatic certificate withdrawal	"any certificate issued under that purchase is withdrawn"	Same historical-accuracy/fairness risk as above.	Should fix	"Paid access ends after a change-of-mind refund. We will explain separately what happens to any certificate and will not remove a legal remedy for a fault."

Issue	Exact quote	Why it matters	Severity	Suggested replacement wording
Team-seat refund rule too sparse	"Team and hospital licences: unused seats can be refunded within 14 days."	Which entity buys, when the clock starts, what is 'unused', and whether seats can be reassigned are unclear.	Should fix	Move to written B2B terms: "An unused seat means one that has not been assigned or activated. The team agreement states when and how the buyer may cancel or reassign it."
Button and email route need confirmation	"The instant button can be used once per person; your legal right to cancel always applies"	Test the once-per-person rule across accounts and all purchases. Any denial must give the email route and statutory deadline.	Should fix	"If the instant button cannot process your request, email us before the deadline. We will treat the date you sent your clear cancellation as the cancellation date."

Provisional verdict: No until the separate site's refund implementation, contract type and certificate behaviour are verified.

7. Evinca privacy notice

Issue	Exact quote	Why it matters	Severity	Suggested replacement wording
Publication basis is mixed	"under our contract with you and only with the consent you give at application"	Contract and consent are different lawful bases. The public record is central to the service, while consent must be freely withdrawable. Define a basis for each field and use.	Must fix before Evinca paid launch	"If your application is approved, we publish the details described below under [basis chosen with counsel]. We ask separately before using an optional photo or promotional material. You can ask us to remove or correct a record as explained below."
Revocation and withdrawal need a precise data rule	"its verification link keeps showing 'Revoked' with a non-sensitive reason code for up to six years"	A person's identifiable link may remain personal data even after their name is hidden. Legitimate-interest balancing, objection and retention need evidence.	Must fix before paid launch	"If a record is revoked, we may keep a limited, non-sensitive verification status for up to six years where necessary to prevent false use of that record. We will assess objections and remove details we no longer need."

Issue	Exact quote	Why it matters	Severity	Suggested replacement wording
Non-applicant data needs a tested notice workflow	"We tell you this when we first contact you"	UK GDPR Article 14 notice must reach nominators, colleagues and team members in time. The pack does not show templates or a process.	Should fix	Keep only when the notification template, timing and opt-out route have been tested.

Provisional verdict: No for paid launch; its June 2027 schedule gives time to settle publication and third-party data.

8. Evinca terms

Issue	Exact quote	Why it matters	Severity	Suggested replacement wording
Early-start consent not yet built	"At checkout we ask whether you want the review to start during that period."	Part 4 says checkout consent and 18+ check remain to be built. The statement cannot support paid sales yet.	Must fix before paid launch	Keep only after an unticked, recorded request, age gate, durable confirmation and fair cancellation calculation are live and tested.
Publication licence broader than explained withdrawal	"a non-exclusive, worldwide licence to store and review it, and, if approved, to publish the summary and record in the register, the magazine and related promotion"	Broad promotional reuse conflicts with the privacy promise to stop future publication after withdrawal. CRA fairness and UK GDPR transparency require limits.	Must fix before paid launch	"If approved, you allow us to publish your agreed summary and record while it is active. We will ask separately before using your words or photo in later promotion. You may withdraw permission for future publication; this cannot recall copies already distributed."
Completion wording too absolute	"Once the review is complete and the decision issued, the service has been fully provided."	A service may have been completed, but whether cancellation is lost depends on statutory conditions, including express consent and acknowledgement. Statutory quality remedies remain.	Should fix	"If the review has been fully carried out, a change-of-mind cancellation may no longer be available where the law permits this and you gave the required consent and acknowledgement. Your rights if our work is faulty or not as described remain."

Provisional verdict: No until Evinca's paid flow and publication model are operational and reviewed.

9. Evinca corrections policy

Issue	Exact quote	Why it matters	Severity	Suggested replacement wording
Review independence not evidenced	"An appeal is decided by someone who was not involved in the original decision."	With one director, the process needs external reviewers or a named separate coordinator.	Should fix before paid launch	"An appeal will be reviewed by someone who did not decide the original case. If we cannot arrange that, we will tell you and will not claim an independent appeal." Set up the role before publication.
Public history can conflict with withdrawal	"Every outcome is added to the record's public status history."	Evinca privacy promises removal of status history on withdrawal except limited revocation information.	Should fix	"We add correction and revocation outcomes to the record while it remains public. If publication is withdrawn, we apply the removal and limited verification rules in our privacy notice."

Provisional verdict: No for a paid launch until the appeal and publication procedures exist.

10. Evinca reviewer-conduct code

Issue	Exact quote	Why it matters	Severity	Suggested replacement wording
No return/deletion procedure for reviewer copies	"Do not copy, share or keep them after the review"	The policy is sound but needs secure access controls, expiry, audit logs and breach reporting.	Should fix	"Review files must be accessed only in the approved workspace. Do not download or copy them unless authorised. Access ends when the review closes; report any accidental disclosure at once." Add technical controls.

Provisional verdict: Yes as a draft conduct code, subject to the controls actually being in place; it does not itself make the paid scheme ready.

11. Evinca fees and refund stages

Issue	Exact quote	Why it matters	Severity	Suggested replacement wording
Stage rule is not a statutory calculation	"Withdrawn after assignment but before scoring: at least 50% refund."	A legal 14-day service refund may be higher, depending on work actually done and the contract price. "At least" helps but needs a published method.	Must fix before paid launch	"If you cancel in your legal 14-day period, we calculate the amount for work already done and show you the calculation. You receive the higher of the legal refund and our stage promise. After reviewers are assigned but before scoring, our stage promise is at least half the fee back."
Completion rule can mislead	"Once the review is complete and the decision issued, there is no change-of-mind refund."	The loss of the statutory right depends on the regulation 36 consent/acknowledgement conditions; no checkout request exists yet.	Must fix before paid launch	"When the review is fully complete, your change-of-mind right ends only where the law allows and you gave the required consent and acknowledgement before work began. Rights for faulty service remain."
"Independent coordinator" is not evidenced	"an independent coordinator must approve it"	One-owner operation does not establish a coordinator.	Should fix	Name and appoint an independent coordinator, or use "we consider hardship requests against published criteria" until one exists.

Provisional verdict: No for taking fees until the checkout, calculation, roles and age controls are in place.

Decision note: removing automatic AI fallback

Recommendation for the owner to consider: make Academy AI use one contracted provider, currently OpenAI, and return a clear "temporarily unavailable; try again later" message if that provider fails. Keep Lumen's separate "use your own key" feature as an explicit user choice. Do not silently send the same selected passage to another provider after a failure.

There are two different fallback layers to distinguish:

1. The pack says the server function tries OpenAI, then Groq; Gemini is configured off. Removing Groq and the dormant Gemini branch would reduce suppliers, US transfer assessments and differences in retention terms. It would also reduce availability during an OpenAI outage. A retry to the same provider, with a short timeout and safe rate limit, is a simpler resilience measure than sending the passage to another company.
2. Lumen's shipped source also has a browser-side provider chain. `HCA5RunCloud` tries enabled providers in order after network, quota or key errors; Academy AI is inserted first, and user-added keys may follow. Thus removing the server fallback alone would not guarantee one destination per request. If the goal is user control and a simple privacy notice, change this client behaviour too: choose one provider for each request, show its name before sending, and ask before retrying with a different provider. That is a separate product change for the owner's approval and requires Lumen tests.

After a single-provider change, replace the current privacy sentence about OpenAI/Groq/Gemini with actual provider wording, update the DPIA/ROPA/supplier list, check the live function configuration and logs, and test failures, cancellations and remaining daily limits. Do not change the privacy notice ahead of deployed behaviour. This is a design recommendation only; no backend or Lumen code was changed.

Checkout and system consistency

Claim or UI	What I could verify	Action needed
Unticked access-start checkbox; disabled button	`site/subscribe.html` has an unticked required checkbox; `site/assets/js/subscribe.js` resets it and disables the continue button. A fallback `window.confirm(...)` is used when `<dialog>` is unavailable, without the full wording.	Remove or replace the fallback with an equivalent accessible express request. Verify the server rejects missing/false consent and stores the precise text version and timestamp.
Final price and trial	Front-end `subscribe.js` selects `crown-year-founding`, has 29.99/39.99 values and displays first charge date. It also loads plan prices from the database.	Verify each country band and Stripe's final amount, price at first payment and renewal, final payment-button text, timezone for 31 January deadline, and successful/failed trial conversion.
Bundle duration	Plans page says Gulf Pass includes Crown Pass for the same 3 or 6 months and does not renew.	Verify entitlement end/refund in the backend, especially where a user also has a separate Crown subscription. State explicitly that the included access never becomes a paid Crown subscription.
Two cancellation routes	`site/account.html` and `site/subscribe.html` display "Stop renewal or update card" and "Cancel and get a refund". Front-end code calls a refund method but server logic is not in this repo.	Test each product, trial, day 3/4/14/15, repeat purchase, duplicate charge, partial day, renewal and provider failure. Confirm immediate access end and refund email.
Contract confirmation	Pack and site say Stripe emails a receipt; no sample post-sale email is supplied.	Inspect a test receipt. Send terms, cancellation instructions/model form, price, renewal and consent record on a durable medium if not already in the confirmation.
AI, retention and deletion	Pack says Gemini off, private user-keyed cache, daily cleanup, and six-year financial retention. No backend source or database evidence was supplied. Part 8 warns the proposed `auth.users` deletion can cascade into financial rows.	Verify deployed function configuration, row security/cache keys, job runs, provider agreements and a safe erasure test on a non-production account. Do not run the Part 8 SQL deletion as written.
Crown Pass AI entitlement	The 19 October repository handoff records a `lumen-ai` 403 for some Crown Pass/Lumen-premium users with `platform_level` 0. I did not retest the live function.	Check this documented issue before charging for a plan advertised as including "more Academy AI". Fix only with the owner's separate backend authorisation; keep billing off if the promised feature is unavailable.
Tax	Main plans page says "No VAT added"; live LSS page says "including any tax that applies".	Have an accountant classify digital supplies and overseas taxes, then make every all-in price and checkout agree.

The 16 open questions

1. Services classification: Do not assume all supplies are services. Continuing access, live processing and support can be services; lesson files, banks and software may also be digital content. Obtain product-by-product advice on mixed contracts. Keep the generous 14-day policy while resolving it. The service checkbox is helpful for early services, not a substitute for digital-content consent and acknowledgement.
2. Three-day full refund: Yes, an extra goodwill benefit can be offered. Label it clearly as additional to statutory rights and measure three days from actual payment, especially after a seven-day trial. State how partial days and time zones work.
3. Once-per-person instant refund: A usability limit on the automated tool is potentially acceptable only if the statutory cancellation route remains equally clear, available and timely, including after repeat purchase or technical failure. "Per person" needs a lawful and proportionate enforcement method; check privacy disclosure.
4. Proportionate calculation: Time is a plausible measure for continuous access, but front-loaded content and multiple bundled products make a universal day-rate unsafe without legal review. Calculate from the price actually paid and the paid service actually supplied; show rounding and why the measure is fair.
5. Lean Six Sigma certificate: "Certificate of Completion" is accurate if it records the company's knowledge exam and does not suggest accreditation. Automatic withdrawal after every refund may misstate an exam result and should be separated from access cancellation and fault remedies.
6. DMCCA subscriptions: The new regime is prospective; the draft 2026 regulations propose 1 January 2027 and remained draft when checked. Build the required up-front information, reminders under the statutory schedule, easy online exit, initial and renewal cooling-off, and durable notices. Do not assume every monthly renewal requires the same reminder; use the final text and official 2026 guidance. Recheck commencement before go-live.
7. Under-18s: "18+ or parent agreement" needs an actual way to tell who the contracting/paying adult is. Assess the ICO Children's code because 16–17-year-olds can use these online services. Apply high-privacy defaults and age-appropriate notices. Do not collect identity documents without a need.
8. AI and health data: A warning against patient data is necessary but insufficient if identifiable data foreseeably arrives. Merely sending one's own health information is not explicit Article 9 consent. Complete a full DPIA before wider promotion, choose/implement the proper Article 6 and 9 bases, minimise inputs, provide an identifier warning, and have incident handling and supplier controls.
9. International customers: Do not imply English law removes mandatory local consumer rights. The UK VAT status does not settle EU or Gulf VAT/GST or digital-services tax; ask a specialist accountant before offering a universal "no tax" claim. Show actual currency and total before payment.
10. Contact: Email can be a practical contact channel, but CCR Schedule 2 asks for the geographical establishment address and phone number where available. A no-phone business should offer a responsive email and a usable correspondence address. Have counsel confirm whether the registered-office service meets the geographic-address requirement.
11. Registered office: A service address can identify the company, but if it is not the place where the trader is established or cannot receive consumer correspondence, add the real establishment/correspondence address (without exposing a private home address without advice).
12. Evinca: The stage refund can be an extra floor, never a cap on a greater legal refund. Publication and revocation require a defensible legal basis, balancing test, clear status text, correction/appeal process and actual staff/reviewer capacity. Do not charge before early-start and 18+ controls work.
13. Team plans: Yes, use separate written B2B terms for price, seats, pilot, data roles, service levels, invoices, tax, liability and ending access. Tell the solicitor the business terms require a separate quote. Do not use B2B terms to displace a genuine consumer's rights.
14. Gulf Pass: The bundle copy is mostly clear. Add: "The Crown Pass access included with your Gulf Pass ends when the pass ends or is refunded. It does not start a separate paid subscription and no Crown Pass payment will be taken unless you separately choose one." Test overlapping purchases.
15. Founding price: A 31 January deadline can be genuine if enforced and not extended. A crossed-out £39.99 can imply an earlier selling price, which is risky with no real sales. Prefer "£29.99 for your first year; £39.99 a year after that. Offer ends 31 January 2027" with no strike-through. Record the standard price and keep the deadline genuine.
16. Withdrawn single-app plans: Remove the legacy-holder sentence if no genuine customers hold one. Maintain internal entitlements for test users without suggesting an existing public offer.

Data protection records and owner actions

- DPIA: Part 8A is screening, not a completed DPIA. It is unsigned. Complete the full assessment of children, possible health/patient data, AI transfers, caching, provider fallback, breach response, necessity and alternatives. Consult the ICO if high residual risk remains after controls. Record the controller's sign-off before promoting AI widely.
- ROPA and retention: The records are a useful start, but add categories of recipients/sub-processors, transfer countries and mechanism per supplier, security measures, a backup/log schedule, and accountable owners. Part 8's account-deletion recipe could erase financial records through cascades. Replace it with a tested workflow and use no manual production SQL from the draft.
- Suppliers: Collect actual accepted DPAs, check each US recipient's certification or an IDTA/Addendum, and file transfer assessments. Confirm Google is disabled until its paid terms and transfer route are approved.
- Complaints and rights: Acknowledge data-protection complaints within 30 days and provide an electronic route; the drafted procedure is a start. Record requests, identity checks, responses and any extension. Do not make a statutory cancellation or erasure request depend solely on logging in or using a form.
- Checkout operations: Get sample Stripe receipts and subscription reminders; test trial, renewal, cancellation and refunds. Set reminders in both test and live settings as needed. Keep records of consent wording, timestamp and plan price. Check the final payment button and durable confirmation.
- Commercial and tax: Ask an accountant about UK registration thresholds and EU/Gulf digital supplies, currency fees, US-dollar tax wording, and the planned £49.99 increase. Keep evidence for price comparisons and deadline enforcement.
- Insurance and B2B: Ask a broker about professional indemnity/cyber cover. Commission separate employer terms. These are prudent actions, not a conclusion that a particular policy or registration is legally mandatory.
